NEW SWIFT ALREADY WINNING AWARDS

Even though the new Swift hasn't yet reached our shores, it is already making waves in the car industry around the world. The new generation Swift has won the prestigious Automotive Researchers and Journalists Conference of Japan (RJC) 2011 Car of the Year award.

The judging panel praised the Swift for its superior handling, performance and excellent value for money. Compared to other vehicles in its light car class, it is supreme with all its added features and new design.

Recalling that the current Suzuki Swift received this same "Car of the Year" Award in 2006 – and with nearly 2 million sales, we all know what a phenomenal success it proved to be.

With the imminent arrival of the new Swift to Australia in the first quarter of 2011, this praise from the industry is fantastic and something for us to be proud of.
